Five-Week Probe Resolves Scam; Solves House Breaks

By Lisa Waterman

A five-week investigation, under the direction of Det. Sgt. John Houlihan from the Andover Police Department and four other detectives, has resulted in five arrests and a warrant for a man who is charged in connection with breaking and entering and larceny in Andover and one other warrant pending, making a total of eight arrests.

The arrests may curb the flow of housebreaks, business breaks and larcenies, that have been committed by a gang of alleged addicts residing in scattered areas of Lawrence, according to Det. David Grant.

"The gang has been committing a group of house robberies. Stolen checks from the homes would be cashed at area banks almost immediately following the robberies." Det. Kevin Winters said.

Area businesses were also being "scammed" by the group, according to Winters.

"Hardware stores, liquor stores, carpentry supply stores and other legitimate businesses would receive calls from an active account and then a man would arrive informing them that he was from the store that called. He would then sign for the merchandise and load it in a car," Grant said. "The business would not know that they had been robbed until they received the bill for merchandise that they never ordered."

On Sunday, Sept. 29, during a routine motor vehicle stop, William E. Lucchesi, 32, 314 Market St., Lawrence and Kim M. Depres, 29, 135 Bowdoin St, Lawrence, were stopped at 8:19 p.m on River Road, for failure to keep right. Lucchesi and Depris were charged with possession of heroin and hypodermic needles. Lucchesi, was also arrested on a warrant from the Methuen Police Department.

"The two were connected to a group of people we were interested in," Det. Winters said.

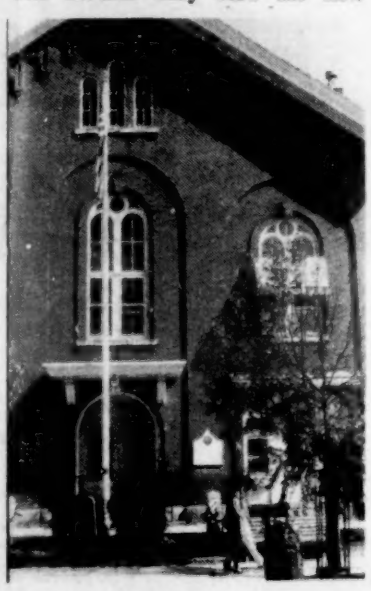

- On Monday, Sept. 30, Det. Sgt. Houlihan received information dealing with two incidents during the week of Sept. 24. regarding the theft of cases of liquor from Capitol Liquors, 3 Railroad Avenue, according to Winters.

"We received some information that another theft was about to happen at the liquor distributors that afternoon."

Det. Grant and Winters. went to Capitol and observed Walter Wila, 25, 30 Jefferson St., Lawrence loading his car with four cases of liquor. Wila was arrested and charged with larceny over $100.

On Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 2 and Oct. 3., the Andover detectives received two warrants from the Lawrence District Court. On Thursday, Oct. 3.,

Alternative Sentencing Plan Meeting With Success

Mary Wesson, director of the town's Alternative Sentencing Program, presented a report on the success of the program to selectmen Monday evening.

The program has been in effect since 1981.

It allows adolescents between the ages of 14 through 17 to work in community services, as mandated by the courts, for misdemeanor offenses.

The Andover Academy Nursing Home, Randolph Nursing Home, Andover Housing Authority, Andover Public Schools and Appalachian Mountain Associates, are some of the local institutions that participate in the program.

"Only a few ever return back to the system," Wesson said. "Some remain working in the place they were assigned as regular employees after the hours mandated by the state have been served."

Neighboring communities, Haverhill and Lowell, have been in communication for advice and information regarding the implementation of a program such as this, of their own, according to Wesson.

"It has been rewarding to witness the change in attitude and behavior of the participants as they grow through their experience in community service," Wesson said.

Another feature of the program is court diversion. Adolescent offenders have the option of appearing before a probation officer instead of sitting in front of a judge for sentencing.

Wesson hopes to get the funding for a program similiar to a Boys' and Girls' Club, to help latch-key youngsters. Latch-key youngsters are children who are at their homes without supervision while their parents are working.

"This is the type of child and the age when problems occur," Wesson said.

"The selectmen are very interested in the idea," Chairman William Dalton said. "We would love to see a proposal for Town Meeting this spring. This is very cost effective. You want to stop the kids while they are only first offenders."

BABY TALK

by Jack Resnick

A growing, playing child needs as large a room as you can provide. While adults use a bedroom mainly for sleeping, a child needs ample floor space for many vigorous activities and so you might consider giving up your bedroom to the child (keeping a smaller room for yourself). Or if you have a large basement, how about converting it into a play center? A child's room should reflect in decor and play materials the needs and interests of her particular the needs and interests of her particular stage of development. A child's room is his castle, not your showcase. It should be a place where he can explore, and learn, and grow.

Dr. Spock To Lecture At Academy

A North Andover group is laying the groundwork for building a local coalition in the peace movement.

The North Andover People for Peace has recruited North Shore peace activists as co-sponsors for its Dr. Benjamin Spock lecture at Phillips Academy Andover, on October 19 at 7:30 p.m. Co-sponsors include the Reading Peace Group, Ipswich Council for a Nuclear Weapons Freeze, Merrimack Valley Clamshell Alliance and Physicians for Social Responsibility.

"The peace and disarmament movement has suffered because of a false image," said Connie Glore, an artist and young mother expecting her second child. "This event is a chance to let the community know that we're legitimate, responsible professionals who care about the quality of life."

"The major reason for bringing Spock to town is to educate about peace, but there is a wonderful by-product. Area groups, who have made terrific, but independent, efforts for peace, have been networking and exchanging ideas while working on the Spock event," said NAPP co-founder Alison Ceplikas.

Approximately 20 co-sponsoring groups have been meeting monthly in North Andover since May to plan the lecture called "Educating for Peace in a Nuclear Age." Spock has announced his retirement from the lecture circuit, so this may be his last east-coast speech.

Merrimack College is sponsoring a day of follow-up workshops with the same title on November 2 at the North Andover campus.

For more information about tickets, contact The Earthfood Store, Park Street, Andover. More information about the workshops is available through the continuing education office at Merrimack College.

Project Charlie Needs Parental Volunteers

Project Charlie, a program recently adopted by the Andover Schools, to help prevent substance abuse, is looking for parent volunteers to work with student groups in each of the town's elementary schools. Each volunteer will work with a teacher from rades 1-6, providing 15, hour-long sessions (usually one per week) from November to March.

"Project Charlie is a drug abuse prevention program with emphasis on building the child's self-esteem, helping to identify healthy relationships and developing good decision-making skills," explains Andover coordinator Jane Guild. Both teachers and parent volunteers follow a specific format of student-participation classes, using materials provided by the project.

Project Charlie (an acronym for Chemical Abuse Resolution Lies In Education) began in Edina, Minn., its present headquarters, in 1976 as a community-based effort to fight the effects of chemical dependency among students. It is now on the curriculum in cities in more than 18 states and five Canadian provinces. North Andover has used the program for four years; last year Andoer introduced it into grades 1-3. This year, Andover will expand Project Charlie through the sixth-grade level.

Volunteers who wish to take part in one of two upcoming mini-training sessions (grades 1, 2 and 3, Tuesday, Oct. 15; 4, 5 and 6, Thursday, Oct. 17) should call Jane Guild. Training sessions will be held in the School Committee Room on the second floor of the senior center from 9 a.m. to noon.

College Admission Workshop

Andover High School seniors and their parents are encouraged to attend a College Admissions Workshop on Wednesday, Oct. 16, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. in the Collins Center. The evening is intended to provide a forum for parents and students to receive information on the college admission process and to ask questions concerning admission procedures.

Seniors and their parents will have an opportunity to meet in groups with their counselor to answer any question regarding college admission. Several handouts of information will be available.

Lecture

James Winning, Lowell Street, will be a featured speaker during the series of lectures, "The Health Care Deliveries Changing Environment," which will be held on Saturday, Oct. 5, at 9 a.m. at Northeastern University.

Winning's topic will be "Financing Health Care Services." Winning is the manager of health care services at the Touche Ross and Co., Boston.

For information on the series contact The University Health Care Dept. Northeastern University, Boston campus.

In Alaska

GOURMET TAKE AWAY Takes Off...

by Arist Frangules
New Hampshire Sunday News correspondent

SALEM, July 20 — You and your spouse both work, don't have time to cook supper, but want a tasty meal when you get home.

What can the couple, or any other working professional, do besides pop in a frozen dinner? Mansour Boustani believes he has an answer in Gourmet Take Away.

Gourmet Take Away, located in an area leased from the Kealey Farms Supermarket on Route 28, is a restaurant featuring fresh Middle Eastern, French and American cuisine made from scratch and available for take out.

Boustani, 35, is president of Byblos Corp., a parent company formed to oversee Gourmet Take Away. The food at the restaurant is not pre-packaged nor is it available at any other establishment.

Boustani, a member of the National Restaurant Association and of the Food and Wine Society of America, said that while he believes the concept of the 2½-year-old restaurant is new, the idea is now about to catch on.

Customers of Gourmet Take Away drive to Salem from Boston and even farther away to purchase platters of baked kibbeh, stuffed grape leaves, rice pilaf, kafta kobab and other Middle Eastern specialties, according to Boustani. Some people even ship the cuisine to friends in California, he said.

HEALTH FOOD

Health and quality are constantly referred to by Boustani in describing how the food is prepared. No preservatives or additives are found in the restaurant's dishes, nor is any sugar (except in pastries) and all the food is low in salt, he said.

"People think healthy food doesn't taste good, but that is not so if you know how to make it," Boustani said.

For example, he said, in the meat pies — vegetables, not fat, are used to keep the dish moist. In fact, Middle Eastern food has the basics of health food, Boustani said. "In the Middle East, the people use ingredients they grow in the garden — not much meat, but vegetables and grains."

The lamb, beef and chicken at Gourmet Take Away is almost entirely stripped of fat, he said. The homemade pastries at Gourmet Take Away are made with a batter that includes an appropriate liqueur.

Boustani believes in Nouvelle Cuisine, which he defines as taking the original bulkiness of an item and "reducing it to its essence." By that method, he said, the meal retains its vitamins and nutritional value.

The kibbeh meat pie, French fries, and felafel are the only items fried at Gourmet Take Away, and then only in vegetable oil, he said.

QUALITY CONTROL

Boustani said the restaurant "prepares food in smaller quantities to give more control over quality." Gourmet Take Away buys all of its raw materials except its Middle Eastern bread, which is provided exclusively to the restaurant by two local bakeries. All dishes are cooked from scratch, he said.

By having food fresh and ready made, Gourmet Take Away has many customers who will call before leaving work, pick up their order at 5:30 p.m., and go home.

While the restaurant does "cater to a lot of professionals who know value and quality," Boustani is interested in broadening the restaurant's appeal. "We want to keep prices affordable for the community," he said. "We are trying to hit mainstream America, from the little boy to the millionaire."

In fact, one of the highest priced items on Gourmet Take Away's menu is the large dinner platter at $29.95. The platter, which serves up to five people, features shrimp saute, boneless whole chicken breast, stuffed cabbage, stuffed zucchini, meatballs, rice pilaf and bread. As for lower cost items, pouch sandwiches, salads, spinach pies, and meat pies can all be purchased for less than $2.

The prices are kept down through efficiency, said Boustani. "We have no waste, so our savings go on the consumer."

Boustani has long been associated with restaurants, having begun working in one when he was 10 years old.

After graduating college, Boustani was sent by an employer from his native Lebanon to the United States to start up a branch to import and export cuisine. Boustani decided to stay in this country and is now an American citizen.

Working his way up from waiter to manager at a local Middle East restaurant, Boustani studied American eating habits over the next 10 years. Along the way he gained a diploma as a professional chef.

"I interviewed different generations of Lebanese as to how Americans reacted to their food. I interviewed Americans on how they liked Lebanese food," said Boustani. "Something clicked in my mind."

Boustani concluded that a restaurant incorporating the qualities of Middle Eastern cuisine, the techniques of French cooking, and adjusting to American tastes would be a success.

In 1983 Boustani said it was "time to move". Gourmet Take Away was born.

FAMILY AFFAIR

Almost all of Boustani's family is involved in the restaurant. His mother Kronfli is in charge of Middle Eastern food, brother Kamal takes care of dinner orders, sister Fadia acts as manager, sister Nadia prepares pastries and salads, and wife Barbara handles finances. It's an 18-hour-a-day job for everybody, he said.

So far the idea is working.

"We're doing excellent", said Boustani. Gourmet Take Away serves an average of 500 people a day, increasing to 800 a day on weekends, he said.

The restaurant also offers a self-catering service for organizations or others throwing functions. "We prepare the food and package it to take home and serve or reheat," he said.

Preschool Begins Year

By Gail Page

"A rice table!" "I'm next!" "Hi, what's your name?"

These were some of the comments overheard as the Free Church Cooperative Preschool opened on Tuesday, Sept. 10. Twenty-two 3½-4 year-old boys and girls started a new and exciting stage in their lives.

For some, fast friendships were formed the first day. Others reveled in such a big room full of toys, climbing equipment, costumes and more. A few found it hard saying goodbye to mom or dad, but found warmth and support from teachers, friendly children and parent helpers. And others, returning from last year, were glad to see a familiar face (Kay Grace, teacher), sad that an old friend was gone (Betty Carpentier, former director) and eager to meet the new director (Jayne deConstant). Plus, there would be a new crop of moms and dads to meet—the "coopertive" in the school's name means that each child's mom or dad spends one mornig a month at the school helping the teachers and being there for the children. So far, this year's paren-helpers have found their mornings tiring, but enlightening, fun and fulfilling.

Some parents come other times, too. Kate Mason's mom, a guitar guru, shares her talents with her daughter's schoolmates on Wednesday mornings. With or without specific skills, parents are always welcome.

The children have enjoyed numerous activities. Teachers know that the best way to children's hearts is through their stomachs, so peach jam was made one day. Nicky Noelle held his very carefully all the way home. Rubber stamps are another favorite. Michelle Carpentier, Richard Sullivan and Jackie Sawyer figured out how to print their names with them and that meant reading letters backward. Make believe and work play are important pastimes at this age. Case in point: two girls "made" a castle out of the jungle gym and then had to figure out names to match their new identities as royalty. Others soon joined in the irrestible fantasy: Amy Shah was Princess Amica (the Indian form of Amy), Robin Klein became King My Little Pony, Sara Ramberg was Queen Gloria Transformer and Kate Mason was Princess Glinda.

Block play is also a daily activity. Rives Borland and Mark McManus built a "wolf trap." Christopher Page, Matthew Santos and Gregory Stamm erected a house with high walls "to protect themselves" (maybe from that wolf?).

Field trips are also part of the preschool's program. A trip to the fire and police stations was a big hit. Laura Corliss got to sit on the desk next to the host police officer in the squad room as he discussed safety.

A monthly newsletter keeps parents informed of news and upcoming events. The bigest is the Silent Auction in early December. The public is invited to bid on all sorts of homemade items and special services, such as catered meals, a canoe trip and Christmas crafts and gifts.

"Of Ships and the Sea," a month-long exhibit by Manchester artist Ernest Desrosiers, will be featured durng October in the Shapiro Gallery at New Hampshire College.

Document Center Gets Grant

The Northeast Document Conservation Center (NEDCC) of Andover has announced it has received two grants from the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities (MCAH) for fiscal year 1986.

One of the awards, $17,250 for Collections Management, will support a series of workshops on care of collectins as well as surveys of conservation needs of repositories in Massachusetts. NEDCC views its workshops and surveys as an important complement to its laboratory services. The objectives of the workshops and surveys are to enable collection-holding institutions to: 1. prevent deterioration of collections through proper environmental control, storage and handling; 2. set priorities for long-term preservation programs; 3. make informed decisions about the use of professional conservation services; and 4. learn simple in-house treatment procedures. NEDCC plans to present five workshops on care and conservation of collections. NEDCC will present a workshop on evaluating library preservation options at the American Antiquarian Society in Worcester on Friday, Dec. 6, in cooperation with the Boston Library Consortium. The agenda will include the preservation options for non-rare and rare books in library collections. Instructors are Jan Merrill-Oldham, preservation officer, University of Connecticut libraries, and Sherelyn Ogden, book conservator, Northeast Document Conservation Center. NEDCC also plans two hands-on workshops on in-house care and repair of paper in cooperation with the Bay State Historical League and the Massachusetts State Archives and two workshops on photographic conservation in cooperation with the New England Museums Associations.

Conservation surveys consist of a day of consultation by NEDCC's field service director, who reviews the building structure, environmental conditions, storage methods and general condition of collections. Alternatively, conservators are available to identify priorities for conservation treatment, to evaluate specific conservation needs of objects in a collection and to prepare condition reports and treatment proposals. The surveys supported by MCAH are provided to selected Massachusetts institutions at reduced cost. The other award, of $26,800 for Merit Aid, supports the center's general programs. NEDCC is the largest non-profit regional conservation center in the country. Each year NEDCC performs conservation treatment for about 300 institutions. It specializes in the conservation of paper, including documents, books, photographs and art on paper. In addition, NEDCC offers a preservation microfilming service. Its clients include libraries, archives, historical organizations, museums and other repositories. Founded in 1973, NEDCC now stands as a model for other regions seeking to establish cooperative facilities.

For information about workshops, surveys or other services of the center, write or call NEDCC.

MIFA Approves $3 Million For Andover Expansion Project

The Massachusetts Industrial Finance Agency (MIFA) has approved a $3 million industrial development bond for an expansion by Crusader Paper Company of Andover. The Andover Industrial Development Financing Authority (IDFA) will issue the bond.

Crusader Paper Company, Inc. will use proceeds from the bond to construct a 76,800 square foot building on Connector Road.

The project will enable the company, a paper and paperboard converter, to expand and provide additional industrial space for the town of Andover.

During the meeting, MIFA approved industrial development bonds totalling more than $49 million for 27 expansions statewide, many of which are involved in industries facing serious foreign competition. This month's projects will create an estimated 800 new industrial sector jobs.

"In an era when the state's basic industries are struggling to compete with foreign firms, IDB financing is a vital component in the efforts of Massachusetts manufacturers to modernize and upgrade their production facilities," said Charles F. Kireker, MIFA's executive director. "As the trade deficit continues to grow, the importance of IDBs as a tool to level the playing field will undoubtedly increase."

MIFA is an independent public agency designed to promote economic growth and increased employment through a variety of incentives, including industrial development bonds, downtown revitalization through the Commercial Area Revitalization District (CARD) program and loan guarantees.

Andover High Notes

"What to do and when?" is a question that bewilders many high school students trying to plan for the future that stretches beyond graduation. For Andover high seniors, however, the answers were organized, ready and waiting this past week thanks to the efforts of the high school guidance department.

Under the direction of Marie Campobasso, department members met with senior groups one period a day October 7-11. The mechanics of college or vocational school admissions were thoroughly reviewed. Such crucial details as matching course credits against graduation requirements, signing up for necessary SAT and achievement tests, full utilization of the Career Resource Center and proper presentation of applications to guidance personnel were the focus for discussion.

The counselors provided specific time lines for testing dates and the processing and submission of forms so that students can register promptly and plan their preparation time efficiently. The guidelines also included a survey of available sources for financial aid.

A follow-up session for seniors and their parents will take place October 16 at 7 p.m. in the Collins Center. At that time an emphasis on the admission process and composition of the personal essay will further strengthen the student's understanding of the standards and expectations they must meet.

About Our Town

Any Old Townies Remember Town House Second Floor?

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Until recently it was simply Town Hall. Now, standing all but empty on Main Street, the familiar brick bulding is a 125-year-old mystery. What did it look like decades ago? What once took place within its walls? Town officials hope some of Andover's long-time citizens can help them answer those questions.

With all town offices moved to the former East Junior High School on Bartlet Street, the old town house has become a quiet place. The town employees' credit union has an office on the first floor, and the municipal maintenance department has set up a carpentry workshop in the building. But, it still stands at the heart of the downtown business district and every day townspeople can be seen relaxing on its streetside benches: waiting for a bus, eating a hot dog, enjoying the sunshine.

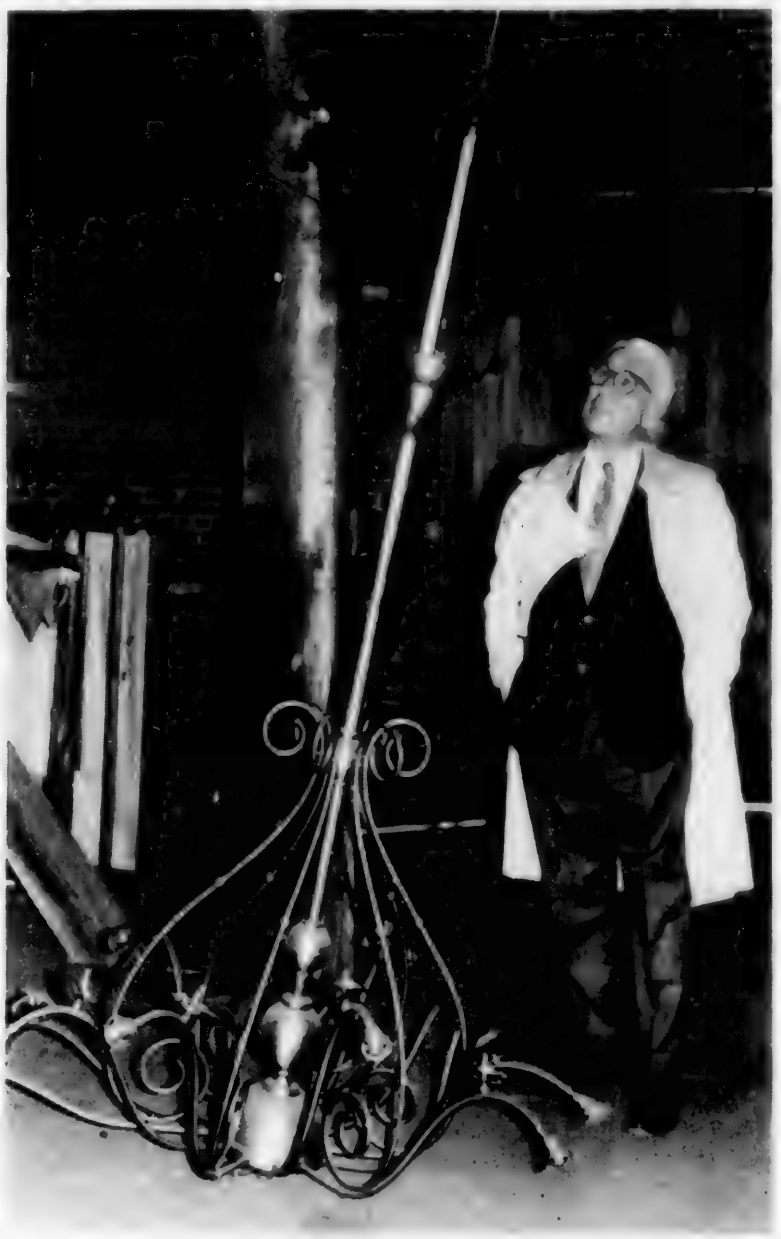

Andover will not sell the building, although officials are still uncertain about what they'll do with it. Selectmen have said it might be unwise to lease first-floor space for commercial uses that would compete with existing downtown businesses and possibly exacerbate current parking problems. The Planning Board, for its part, believes that allowing retail uses in the former Town Hall might help liven up the Park Street/Barnard Street corridor.

Both boards agree that they'd like to see the post office open a customer service branch in the building (although federal postal authorities haven't promised that will happen) and the Andover Historical Society may set up a small permanent exhibit on the first floor as well.

What most intrigues the town manager at this point, however, is the second floor of the town house, most recently used for offices. Town Manager Kenneth Mahony tells the TOWNSMAN he'd like to restore the area to its original appearance—and its original function—as much as possible. But, that calls for a bit of historical research, and the manager has reached a dead end.

Mahony notes that the second floor was partitioned into office space around 1940 or 1941, but before that, "we don't really know what went on here." It seems clear that the area consisted of a large hall or auditorium with a stage, and served as a community meeting place. TOWNSMAN accounts from the early 1900s show that lectures, dances

Completes Training

Cadet Elizabeth L. Kleschinski, daughter of Madeline Kleschinski, 65 Cross St., Andover, completed a U.S. Air Force ROTC field training encampment at Dover Air Force Base, Del.

Field training, attended by cadets normally between their second and third year of college, gives an opportunity to evaluate each student's potential as an officer, according to an Air Force spokesman.

The summer's curriculum consists of orientations on jet aircraft, career oportunities, human relations education and equal opportunity training. Physical fitness and survival training is also emphasized.

The field training is four weeks, but cadets in the two-year ROTC program receive an additional two weeks of instruction in the development of air power and the contemporary Air Force.

Kleschinski is a student at Syracuse University, N.Y.

Preparing Haunted House Program

The Andover Department of Community Services and Andover Community Theatre is preparing for the seventh annual Haunted House at Doherty Junior High School Auditorium from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Adults and senior high school students are needed to man the hallways, dark corners and building haunts on Halloween evening. The only thing volunteers need to do is to come dressed in costume with working flashlights about one-half hour prior to the opening of the doors. A call to the DCS is also required. Volunteers may bring props, stuffed dummies and the like to help decorate the house. All donations will be welcomed.

For more information, call the Department of Community Services in Town Hall.

If you could drive to the sun at the speed limit (55 miles an hour), you'd get there in about 193 years, if you didn't stop for coffee.

YOU'VE BEEN GLORIOUS!

We thank you, our customers, for your patience and understanding during Hurricane Gloria. And many thanks to the crews from Pennsylvania Power & Light, New York Electric & Gas, Hydro Quebec, Ontario Hydro and Central Vermont Public Service who came to help us out. Also, our fleet of helicopters looking for trouble spots from the air.

And trouble spots there were. At the height of the storm, there were 238,000 Massachusetts Electric customers without power. Downed trees and downed lines were everywhere. We'd like to thank the 110 tree trimming crews who came from as far away as Virginia, Ohio, Tennessee, South Carolina and Ontario for responding so promptly. State and local government agencies were also quick to respond, and we'd like to thank them for their efforts.

Our 1800 employees also have our thanks. They came to work Friday morning with their bags packed and have been on the job ever since.

From all of us at Massachusetts Electric to all you, thank you.

White Cane Safety Day Oct. 15

White Cane Safety Day is October 15. It is marked by proclamations of the president, governors and mayors each year. For those who are blind, the white cane is an instrument of independence, allowing a welcome degree of mobility. For those who are sighted, the white cane is a reminder to exercise courtesy and common sense when approaching a blind person. Providing assistance, when desired, or yielding the right of way can assure the safe passage of visually imparied travellers.

The Andovers, a chapter of the National Federation of the Blind, welcomes interested sighted and blind people to its next meeting at 7 p.m. at the North Parish Church in Old North Andover Center, Monday, Oct. 24. The importance and significance of the white cane to users and observers will be discussed.

An annual award presentation ceremony was held Sunday, Aug. 28, at the Naval and Marine Corps Reserve Training Center in Lawrence. This year's recipient was Storekeeper First Class Richard P.J. Guilmette, USNR-R, of 99 North St., Andover.

This award is to honor the late CTRCS Howard R. Blaisdell, who has become a legend by being recognized as "Chief of Chiefs."

"Custom Furniture at Factory Prices"

We have been handcrafting traditional and contemporary furniture for over 30 years. Our modern Worcester plant is staffed with a team of skilled craftsmen and women, who manufacture some of the finest furniture in the United States.

Visit our factory outlets. Our sales consultants are available to assist you in selecting a style and choosing a fabric

We guarantee our frames and springing for as long as you own our furniture. We use only 5/4" solid kiln-dried maple for frame construction. Each piece is individually selected before being cut. The frames are all joined in the classic way with wooden dowels and corner blocks for reinforcement (no nails or screws to loosen in time). Our more traditional pieces are hand carved with beautiful detail.

After our furniture is constructed we pad the entire piece inside and out with cotton, for more comfort, longer life and a more refined look

For seat cushions you can choose the highest quality foam cores (from soft to very firm) or down.

When the fabric is upholstered acrosss the frame, fine attention is paid to each detail from matching patterns to perfect fit. All skirts are fully lined. Each item of furniture is set up on an inspection table and examined carefully before it is shipped.

We handcraft loveseats, sofas, chairs, ottomans, sectionals and sleepers. You can select any style in any fabric, "truly custom furniture but at factory prices"

Program On AIDS At Hospital

As part of its ongoing wellness education series, Healthy Issues, Bon Secours Hospital will present a community education program on AIDS on October 15 at 7:30 p.m. in the hospital's auditorium, 70 East St., Methuen.

AIDS is an alarming new disease. Recent national surveys indicated more than half of all Americans are misinformed on how the disease can be transmitted and feel AIDS is the most serious medical problem facing the country today. There is no known cure and at least half of all AIDS victims die. Since 1981 a growing number of cases has been reported across the United States. With new research and concerns surfacing almost daily, grasping a clear understanding of the disease and its risk factors is extremely difficult.

Larry Kessler, AIDS Action Committee, Boston, will discuss prevention, current research and AIDS' economic and social impact fn the community. The program will help clear up the many myths about AIDS while providing a clear understanding of risk factors.

For registration information on the AIDS program and other Bon Secours Hospital community education programs, contact the education department.

Cleanup

The Ipswich River Watershed Association and Essex County Greenbelt Association are co-sponsoring an Ipswich River Clean-up and Restoration Project on Saturday, Oct. 19. In addition to the problems of littering, downed trees and debris dispersed along the river by storms, there is a problem of artificial channelization which occurs when the water is at an appropriate level for boaters to take "short cuts" over slightly submerged land rather than following the original streambed. This starts a process of stream channeization which straightens the natural meanders, shortening the river length. It reduces the amount and diversity of stream habitat, impactng the fish population. The rate of surface run-off and streamflow is increased, thus increasing erosion of banks and bottom and increasing sedimentation downstream. The river goes through natural processes of changing streambed, but human activities can have a dramatic, detrimental impact on the riparian habitat. Part of this project includes work groups who will help restore the natural integrity of the river in sections subject to heavy use.

Volunteer help is needed to work at oxbows, canoe and clean debris from the river, clean up access points and help pick up trash at collection points.

Hearing Loss

There are different types of hearing loss. Conductive loss takes place in the outer or middle ear and can be caused by a number of factors, such as injury, impacted earwax, birth defects, use of certain types of medication or hardening of the tiny ear bones, otosclerosis. Many of these difficulties can be overcome through surgical or medical procedures.

A second type of hearing loss is called sensorineurual. It is the most common type of loss and takes place in the inner ear. Many people with this type of nerve loss can be helped with hearing aids.

Singers Invited To Join Chorale

Conductor David Tierney of the Greater Merrimack Valley Chorale invites new Andover singers to join Wednesday rehearsals to prepare for the Community Chorale's December concert featuring Vivaldi's "Gloria" and Handel's "Coronation Anthem #1." Rehearsals are at 7:30 p.m. in St. Augustine's Church, Andover.

Experienced singers are welcome, but so is anyone who loves to sing and would like choral training. All that is necessary is a commitment to the weekly rehearsals in Andover, says Tierney. He is a music director at St. Mary's Church, Waltham, and organist with a graduate degree in conducting from the University of Lowell. As conductor of the Greater Merrimack Valley Chorale, his aim is a strong intercommunity chorus of diverse talents and diverse programs.

Interested singers may come to the next rehearsal. For more information, call Tierney in Waltham, Joe Re in Wilmington, Maria Hagiageorges in Andover or Robert and Judy Forgione in Burlington

The test, consists of several parts including interest inventory, biogaphical profile, mathematics, reading and problem solving. The results are sent to the students, enabling them to compare their personal profile with students in similar grades taking the same test. For application and information, phone Rosie Lynn at Wentworth Institute of Technolgy.

Buskin and Batteau Return To Andover's Collins Center

Buskin and Batteau, the popular and versatile songwriters/performers, and the multi-talented story-telling mimes Stromberg and Cooper bring their unique stage shows to Andover's J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts on Saturday, Oct. 26, at 8 p.m.

Music industry veterans, Bushkin and Batteau have been repeatedly cited for their ingenious performances which carefully combine wry humor and talented songwriting with instrumental and vocal virtuosity. This refreshing combination caused one critic to say that B&B's sophisticated act "breathes a new life into the unfashionable genre of the folk-pop singer-songwriter."

Prior to their initial collaboration 15 years ago, David Buskin and Robin Batteau worked as solo recording artists. Their songs have been recorded by such musical luminaries as Bette Midler, Peter, Paul and Mary, Anne Murray, Johnny Mathis and Shirley Bassey, among others.

Most recently they have been working with Tom Rush, whose instinct for discovering great songwriters is legendary. Tom was the first to record the work of Joni Mitchell, Jackson Browne and James Taylor, and his current repertoire includes several songs by David and Robin.

Singer, songwriter, story teller and mime, Bob Stromberg has written several hundred songs, released four record albums and performs on stage 350 times each year. Songwriter and performer Michael Cooper studied with the "father of modern mime" Etienne Decrous and has been bringing his show all over New England for more than ten years.

Safety

David J. Christensen, executive vice president of the Automobile Club of Merrimack Valley, discussing the advantages of walking on the left side of roadways when sidewalks are not available, said, "it you walk along a roadway with traffice behind you, the only warning you get is hearing approaching vehicles. Walking on the left facing traffic enables a pedestrian to see as well as hear those same vehicles. In such a position, evasive action can be taken if necessary."

Christensen mentioned the increased mobility and daredevil instincts of many elementary-age youngsters. "Special events, such as this month's Halloween holiday, also demand a knowledge of responsible walking behaviors," he said. "Make certain all children follow them."

She came to the United States in 1964 to study at the Peabody Conservatory of Music in Baltimore, Md., where she received the Bachelor Degree of Music. She was awarded the Master Degree of Music in 1971 from the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston. Ms. Tsu has performed with several orchestras and has numerous television and radio appearances. As a soloist, she has continued to impress critics in the United States, Canada, Hong Kong and Taiwan with a mature and masterful style developed under Jacob Maxin, Theodore Lettvin, Victor Rosembaum, Leon Fleisher and Elizabeth Katzenellenbogen. She was on the faculty of the New England Conservatory of Music and teaches at the University of Lowell.

This piano recital represents ACE's first public cultural exchange activity in musical events. Tickets will be sold in advance or at the door.

Lynn Loscutoff To Have Exhibit

A golden milestone in the creative life of Lynn Leon Loscutoff of Andover culminates in her first one-person exhibition of paintings. Done on location from France to Mainland China, from Massachusetts to California, these oil and watercolor impressions were painted during 1984 and 1985. The public is invited to attend the exhibition at the Copley Society's Gallery, 158 Newbury St., Boston, from October 21 through November 9, Tuesday through Saturday, from 10:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Lynn has been a creative force in Massachusetts for the past 25 years. Born in California in 1935 where she completed much of her art training and formal education, she came here to accompany her husband. Her energies have been directed towards the multiple fields of creating exhibitions and educational programs, designing environments, raising a family, running businesses, galvanizing the Copley Society and recording her own artistic impressions on paper and canvas.

For her outstanding achievement on behalf of the Copley Society during her eight years as executive director, Lynn was awarded the Copley Medal, one of only three people in the 100-year history of the organization to be so honored for distinguished service to the arts in the city of Boston.

Much of the work to be exhibited was painted during a visit to the Peoples Republic of China in May 1985 as part of a cultural exchange. Lynn was the presenting artist for this official delegation. One of her paintings was presented to Governor Liang of the province of Guangdong, sister state to Massachusetts. The delegation included Mrs. Kitty Dukakis, five "great chefs" from Boston hotels, a musician and Mary Richardson and crew who filmed a segment on China for "Chronical" which was aired in May.

Many of the paintings were done under the supervision of hundreds of curious onlookers who left their daily tasks to watch this tall, curly-headed American among her easels and paint. When she tried to avoid the crowds by starting at 5 a.m., she found herself on the shores of the West Lakes in Hanchou surrounded by thousands of people doing their Tai Chi exercises in the early morning light.

Lynn now paints in her studio at Lanseville and wherever else in the world she can get to.

Proper Lifting

The easiest way to strain your back is to life a box or piece of furniture incorrectly. The back was not designed as a lifting tool, so don't use it as such. Don't simply stoop over to pick up a box. You'll put unnecessary strain on your back when you stand upright again, because your back will have to absorb the entire weight of the load.

The key to proper lifting is to use your legs to support the weight of the load. Lift items with knees bent and back straight. Grasp cartons with hands at opposite corners and lift slowly.

The first magazine for children was published in 1751. Directed solely toward children, it was appropriately small in size—measuring only four inches by two and a half inches.

Former Pastor Returns

The Rev. Stephen Hiler, a local preacher, conducted the first Methodist service in a North Andover school house on the first Sunday in August 1845 with 20 persons present.

As part of this year-long celebration of 140 years of Methodist witness in North Andover, the First United Methodist Church, 57 Peters St. (corner of Routes 114 and 133) has invited a former pastor to return this Sunday and bring the Word of God to residents of the community at the 10 a.m. service as the Rev. Mr. Hiler did so many years ago.

The Rev. Dr. Ralph D. York, who served the church from October 1945 to February 1954, will be the first of several former pastors to return to the pulpit he filled with such great distinction in the years when he helped acquire the Rolling Ridge Conference Center for the Southern New England Conference and the Osgood Hill Retreat Center for Boston University. Since 1954, when he moved to California, Dr. York has served Methodist churches in Redwood City, Millbrae, Los Gatos and Sunnyvale, Calif., as well as serving as district superintendent of the Shasta District from 1965 to 1971 (California-Nevada Conference).

Dr. York and his wife, Sandy, have always worked as a team, sharing church activity leadership and many regional and national training-teaching occasions. Avid outdoors people, the Yorks used to take North Andover youth on tours to New York and Washington, D.C., as well as hiking jaunts into the Presidential range. In recent years, they have traveled through the mountains of the west where they have a silver mine, 10,000 feet up at the timberline in the Sierra range.

Following the service, at 11:05 a.m., the Yorks will lead a forum on "China Today," discussing the changes they observed there, including the growth of the Christian church, while leading a group to China, Mongolia and Hong Kong this past summer. The public is invited.

Some fish, such as groupers and flatfish, are able to change color to match the background on which they are lying.

Planners Object To Proposed Plant Due To Parking

By Lisa Waterman

Preliminary plans by they Crusader Paperboard site on Connector Road did not meet with the approval of the Planning Board when they were presented during Tuesday's meeting of the planners.

Developer James Maynard, of Maynard Associates, Waltham described the preliminary site plans to the Planning Board.

The plans call for the building to be used for Research and Development space. The floor space of the building is 88,000 square feet. The building will be divided for use by three tenants and built on one level. The exterior will be bronze aluminum and glass. There will be 296 parking spaces divided in front and back parking lots. A truck dock for up to eight trucks will be mixed with parking spaces for motor vehicles in the rear parking lot. A future connection to a central railroad artery is planned for future construction in the rear of the building.

"I have a real problem with the back parking facilities mixing automobile parking with truck docks. This could jeopardize pedestrian safety." Principal Planner Nancy Jeton informed Maynard.

"Another critical issue is that this site has been pushed to its maximum," Planning Board member Michael Houghton said.

Chairman Margaret Bradshaw agreed with Houghton.

"There is not an inch of space left, that's for sure." Bradshaw said.

The project manager informed the planners that, "We have made attempts to shift the building to get parking away from the back of the building, but, it could, in effect, make parking more difficulf for the people working in the building."

"If it can't be shifted, you should consider making the building smaller," Jeton said.

The site plan looked like proposed plans of a warehouse and not a Research and Development building, according to Houghton.

"The high bay looks like a warehouse construction. The plans sound to me like a lot of warehouse construction."

"We can provide certified proof that we are not planning to build a warehouse," Maynard said.

"Certified papers don't stand up in court once the building is built," Bradshaw said.

The board voted to send their concerns to Building Inspector Sam DeSalvo. Concerns will include problems with use of the topography of the land, concern with the amount of truck traffic the development would add to Lowell Street. Coverage and the mixture of truck docks with motor vehicles and pedestrians in the back parking lot were also discussed.

In other business: Jenkins Estates, which is a 13 lot subdivsion off Jenkins Road, was issued a stop work order by the Planning Board. Developer Arthur Gauthier was put under a construction schedule two years ago. He was issued a stop work order in 1983 for non-compliance with the construction schedule. With the revised work schedule lots 9 and 13-15 were released. Foundation and Board of Health permits were issued for the lots. A foundation permit was issued for lot 12, which under state law must be released by the Planning Board. A foundation was poured on the unreleased lot. Gauthier asked for the release of four additional lots. The board voted to lift the stop work order so that the lots with foundations could be stabilized with mulch for the winter and that the four lots requested by Gauthier not be opened.

Construction progress and stabilization under the modified orders of conditions is progressing at Olympic Village, the 39 lot sub-division off of Woburn Street. Developer Arthur Kalogianis, Olympic Construction, 12 Railroad Ave., has stabilized the required two-thirds of the site ordered by the Board. Vandalism by dirt bikes and motorcycles has made the stabilization process difficult.

Canterbury Street Residents Protest Proposed Addition

By Lisa Waterman

Canterbury Street residents protested the construction of a new building adjacent to the existing clubhouse on the grounds of the Andover Country Club during a hearing before the Zoning Board of Appeals last Thursday night.

Other residents who did not attend the hearing were represented by Ronda Silberberg Canter, a Boston attorney.

The special permit requested by Andover Country Club owner, Yvon Cormier, Cormier Andover, Inc., 59 Chandler Road, would allow the construction of a new building on the grounds of the Andover Country Club, 60 Canterbury St. The new building would be constructed adjacent to the existing clubhouse overlooking the eighteenth hole. It will consist of 60 sleeping rooms, an office and recreation room.

"We are not trying to compete with the hotels and motels in the area. This would be for club members use only," Phillip Sullivan, attorney representing Cormier told the Z.B.A.

"With the recent drunk driving problems, a lot more people are concerned about drinking at weddings and getting into their cars and driving home," Sullivan said.

"The Planning Board has not seen the the proposal," Principal Planner Nancy Jeton said. "We don't know if there would be adequate water and sewerage facilities for a complex of this size. We would also want to consult the department of public works."

Canterbury Street residents reported cars speeding down at 50 and 60 miles an hour along a straight-away section of the street.

"When there is a wedding in progress, we keep the children off the streets," Tanya Adams, 23 Canterbury St., told the Z.B.A. "You can hear the cars screeching to a halt once they get to Lowell Street. We have allowed the police department to use our yards for speed traps, but the word that a cruiser is in the area, gets up to the country club fast."

Adams has put out orange construction cones, that she hopes will slow the drivers.

"The street is not made for this type of traffic, 400 to 500 cars a day," Suzanne Burgess, 16 Canterbury St., said. "We have lost two dogs and two cars, to drunken drivers. My husband had just gotten out of his car one night, when my son yelled to him "that man is driving over your car." The driver tried to jump his car right over my husband's, like a car stunt on television."

Andover Country Club manager Lynne Boda suggested that the traffic problem was speeding and not the flow and number of cars.

Approximately one thousand people go to and from the country club, during the week, according to Boda.

"It should be up to the town to try to figure out a solution to this problem, speed bumps would probably help," Boda said.

The request for a special permit was continued until the next hearing on Thursday, Nov. 7. The Z.B.A. requested that the Planning Board staff review the plan and provide comments for the board prior to their next meeting.

Parking Issue Puts Garage Permit On Hold For Zoners

The almost-two-year search by Ronald Abraham to find a garage to transfer his Elm Street repair business continues. Abraham was once again in front of the Zoning Board of Appeals last Thursday to request a special permit to allow a repair garage for motorized vehicles, including towing and road service, at 3 Lupine Road.

The availability of 15 on-site parking spaces that Abraham's attorney, Angelo Fisichella, informed the Zoning Board of Appeals could be used for the repair garage, was questioned by the board.

The question was, whether or not, the board could change the Bausmer decision that set aside the 15-parking spaces for the Lupine Road business complex, according to Wesley Whitney, Chairman of the Board of Appeals.

"We have been undergoing a multi-million dollar renovation," Jordan Burgess, 16 Canterbury St., owner of Dundee Park, told the Board. "We plan to develop additional real estate packages that would bring in 200-300 new jobs to Andover. We have investors who have invested over five million dollars in the office park. We don't think our tenants want to overlook a repair garage."

Andover Principal Planner Nancy Jeton disagreed with Burgess.

"This is a perfect location for the repair garage," Jeton said. "It is located in an area that is environmentally mixed use for office and light manufacturing, among other things. By right, a car dealership, a contractor's yard or wholesale storage area, without the covering of an outside structure, could go in that area, or by special permit, a drive-in restaurant or a car wash. It is very difficult to find a station that provides repair, towing and road service in this town. Ten-thousand households in town depend on this kind of local facility."

"Whether or not this board takes away off-street parking from the business creates a problem with the zoning bylaw," Whitney said.

The Z.B.A. made a site visit on Saturday to the proposed 3 Lupine Road location. Their decision will be made pending a resolution of the parking issue.

In other business: The petition of Richard Hannon, 92 North St., Andover, who was aggrieved by the decision under the Zoning By-laws of the Building Inspector that a proposed dormer will increase the non-conforming nature of an existing structure and for a special permit to allow construction of a full dormer on a pre-existing non-conforming structure. The Z.B.A. ruled that under the Zoning By-law a special permit was not required.

Janos and Klara Vajda, 26 Clark Road, Andover, received preliminary approval for a variance to allow construction of a deck which will not meet the minimum setback requirements, located at 26 Clark Road.

School Maintenance A Priority

The Board of Selectmen agreed during Monday's meeting that they would like to make the Andover P.T.O aware that the Board of Selectmen is doing everything they can to improve the town maintance of the Andover public schools.

In a P.T.O. publication "South School Times," the P.T.O. members voiced concern, "As citizens and taxpayers of Andover, if we are concerned about the maintenance of our South School, we must voice our concern about this issue to our town manager, selectmen and finance committee as well as Mike Giammusso, the school committee member that works with the South School."

"New homeowners in the South School area are not aware of the background of the school maintenencce problems." Norma Gammon, former selectmen, stated in a letter to the board. "They are further unaware of the problems that the town maintance department inherited from the school department and what it is costing them yearly in taxes to maintain these buildings."

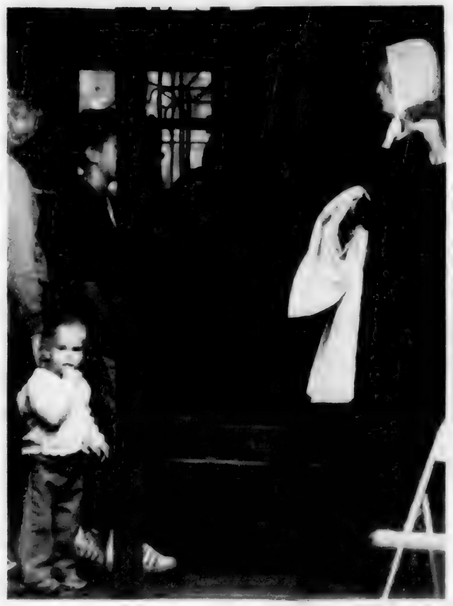

"People are not aware of what's been done to the schools," Selectman Gerald Silverman said. "All of a sudden lights are out in parking lots. You have to get the electric company and get lighting issues addressed. For 28 years an exit at the West Junior High has been leading out in the wrong direction. We had to change all the doors to fit in with the fire codes. Doors have not been turned inward since the Cocoanut Grove fire."

"The buildings need over one million dollars in repairs," Dalton said. "We are doing everything we can. There is a tremendous amount of money budgeted for this. The town is trying to catch up for twelve years of no scheduled maintenance. We have over 300 million dollars worth of public property and less than one percent goes to annual maintenance. This year a report calls for one million dollars a year for the next five years, 80 percent will be devoted to the school department."

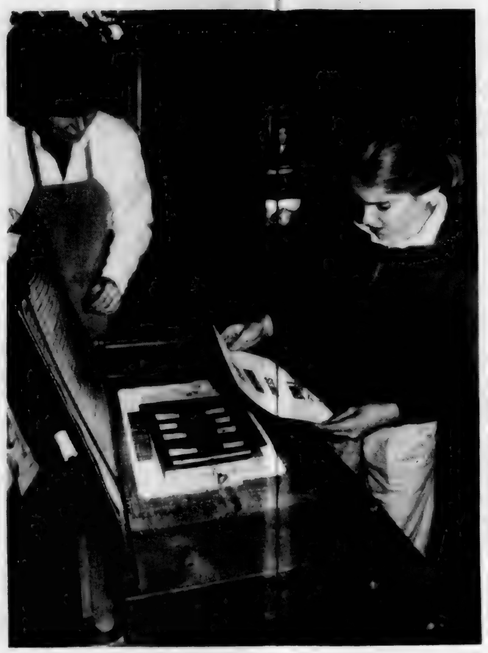

"My suggestion is that we bring Gerry Dion, head of municipal maintenance for the town, before the board to give us a report on what the municipal maintenance department is doing." Selectman Charles Wesson said. "We could have representatives from the South School P.T.O. and School Committee attend the meeting."

Selectmen agreed to include further discussions of the school maintenance progress during a November meeting

In other business: Halloween hours have been set from 6 p.m to 8 p.m on Thursday, Oct. 31, for Andover's ghosts and goblins.

Andover Historical Society Festival

Many people attended the Andover Historical Society's first Family Festival last Sunday. The Amos Blanchard House and barn, full of old-time curiosities and implements, was open to visitors that strolled in and out viewing objects from the first half of this century. With the help of costumed interpreters, viewers were given explanations and demonstrations on the old-fashion way of life. The Family Festival, organized by Randy Hanson, Holly Plamondon and Marty Schmidt, grew out of the society's much-praised fifth-grade education program. Photos clockwise from upper left: Guide Gail Ralston conducts a tour as two-year-old Pamela Schardin of Garvin Circle draws her attention to something else; Eric Patterson, 13, of High St. looks at radio from the 40's; Ann Patterson demonstrates the technique and helps nine-year-old Emily Kalkstein of Abbot St. operate the printing press; Peter O'Leary conducts the art of making cider for Joanne Sayers and her seven-year-old son, Eric, and Stephanie Schardin, 14; Beth Willett, 13, of Orchard St. takes a close look at a formal gown worn during the 50s; Visitor's leave after the tour; Nine-year-old Mary Myers of School St. grinds some herbs as guide, Marty Schimdt, explains kitchen duties during the early 1800s; Ten-year-old Seth Patterson and eleven-year-old David Naitza, both of High St., look over a variety of tools in the barn .

Relief In Sight?

Ballardvale residents who have patiently awaited some relief from traffic problems created by industrial development, should take heart in the welcome news that the town is looking into the possibility of extending a dead end road in the area.

Town Manager Kenneth Mahony told selectmen recently that Burtt Road, which leads to the Gillette plant, then ends, could be extended by the town to meet with Ballardvale Street in Wilmington.

The road currently ends at the Gillette plant but is a dirt path from there to its Wilmington terminus. Mahony feels the town could pave the remaining portion of the road and install traffic signals at Ballardvale Street.

The road would not only provide a second entrance to the Gillette plant, which has a high employment rate, but could also service other companies in the area.

This, of course, would lead to taking some cars off River street and provide some relief to the Ballardvale center area since industrial traffic could enter and leave the area via Route 125 to Route 93.

Also in the planning stages, according to Mahony, is completion of the Route 125-I93 interchange which would further make access to the industrial area easier.

Both possibilities are welcome and, hopefully, will be advanced from discussion and planning to actual construction.

While industrial development in the Lowell Junction area has been an economic plus to Andover as a whole, it has been a source of continuing problems for Ballardvale residents.

They have faced and tolerated the inordinate increase in not only traffic from employees on their way to and from the various plants, but the heavy trucking which has also gone with the town's improved industrial base.

Since the bulldozers first began plowing a path for Interstate 93 many years ago, Andover officials have been pleading with state and federal officials for an interchange into the Lowell Junction industrial park.

The town has gone through a number of governors and even Presidents since then, with nothing to show but promises, which have never been kept.

Town officials will continue their efforts to obtain an interchange, but history has clearly shown that, while this may be the most logical solution to the problem, its reality seems remote.

It is, therefor, refreshing to see that the town is pursuing a remedy to a long-standing problem which finally may provide some relief to a very patient group of residents in the Ballardvale area.

Down The Years With The Townsman

75 Years Ago — October 1910

William G. Goldsmith, Elm Street, 78, died Oct. 7, at his home. Goldsmith was prinicipal of the Punchard Free School, from 1858-1886. He was postmaster of Andover, from 1886-1895 and member of the Board of Selectmen, from 1898-1901.

"Many Andover men who are now in middle life will look back upon the training recieved at the hands of Mr. Goldsmith with ever increasing satisfaction," his Oct. 14, TOWNSMAN obituary read.

Andover has never in its history witnessed as large a throng of visitors as entered the town on Wednesday, Oct. 11, 1910. Strangers from all parts of the town and state, twelve hundred strong, arrived from Boston, shortly before ten o'clock and together with a large number of townspeople witnessed the dedication of a memorial tablet and boulder at Rabbit's Pond. The occasion was a marked one. Not only for the town, but for the entire country as well, commemorating as it did the courageous, persevering work of seven missionaries who one hundred years ago, set the ball rolling of missionary work in foreign lands.

The installation of drinking fountains was considered and a committee consisting of Messrs. Clark, Stearns of the School Commitee to investigate the installation of such fountains as might be necessary to meet the immediate needs of the schools.

Columbus day, a new holiday, was celebrated this week.

50 Years Ago — September 1935

State law requires that every so often the selectmen check the boundaries of respective towns and that means that the selectmen must put on an extra pair of heavy boots and then go through the woods and swamps and any other places wnere one of those stone boundaries happen to be and then when they locate it they produce their little pot of black paint and repaint the initials that are carved in granite. So far this week our local selectmen met the officials of North Andover, North Reading and Tewksbury.

Italy, without its war and without its warmth, was transplanted to Locke Street, Wednesday afternoon and evening, when the November Club staged one of the most colorful carnivals that Andover has seen in years. The cold weather during the afternoon, especially the latter part, served to keep down the numbers of those making the pilgramage to Andoverized Italy, but even with this handicap the street fair was a big success. The November Clubhouse was the scene of a puppet show, tea dance, and a cabaret dance.

Andover residents are still paying three cents for the privilege of sending a letter to their fellow townsmen in Ballardvale, and the residents of the Vale are still paying three cents for the privilege of mailing a letter to anyone outside their little district.

One of the reasons we are looking forward to Christmas is that we've been wondering whether "Santa Claus is Coming to Town" was just another a one-year popular tune or whether it will be a perennial tune.

25 Years Ago — October 1960

An ultimate savings of hundreds of thousands of dollars may be realized if a plan of the School Building Committee proves practical. The Building Committee suggested during a meeting with the School Committee that the Bradlee School be renovated and six room addition be added to the 12 rooms at the West School. This would meet

The Living Will

What rights do citizens of the Commonwealth have in determing their own medical care? Today's medical technology makes it possible for physicians to artificially postpone imminent death with advanced life support systems and resuscitation techniques. Although the courts have upheld the patient's right to refuse treatment, the situation becomes complicated when the patient is unconscious, near death and unable to express his or her wishes. For this reason, many have turned to living wills. I have received many requests for information about the living will, especially inquiries as to how to obtain one.

A living will is a document stating the individual's desire to forgo extraordinary or heroic measures which will serve only to defer certain death. The most widely available form is distributed by Concern for Dying, 250 West 57th St., Suite 831, New York, N.Y. 10107, a non-profit organization which provides, without charge, a sample will, a question-and-answer pamphlet and a telephone counseling service. Another sample will is included in the body of House bill 2421, which has passed the House and is awaiting Senate action. Copies may be obtained from my office at Room 473G, State House, Boston 02133.

Both of these forms contain rather general language. To enhance your own will's effectiveness, it is best to use one or both as a guideline to consider what specific treatments you would or would not desire and to include that information. A second way to ensure that your will is honored is to designate an individual to make medical decisions for you should you become unable to do so. This gives your physician someone to talk to and gives you someone to legally and authoritatively represent you. Most importantly, your living will should be discussed with your doctor and those who may be called upon to make decisions for you, should it become necessary.

Indian Dance

Nanda and Priya Chitre bring Bharat Natyam, the classical dance of India, to Salem's Peabody Museum on Sunday, Oct. 20, at 3 p.m. The art originated thousands of years ago in South India and is one of the four classical styles of Indian dance.

In Indian temples, a dancer of Bharat Natyam was considered earthly counterparts of the "asparas" who danced at the celestial court of Indra, according to Nanda. "The typical movement of the dance, advancing and retreating, was to make sure the girl never turned her back on the god.

Five Mile Race Is Benefit

It is the worthiest of all causes.

Helping young children afflicted with a handicap.

People of all ages and walks of life will congregate at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Osgood Street, Andover, on Sunday, Oct. 20, to participate in the Second Annual Run, Walk, Bike-A-Thon.

The event is being directed by Lowell High Varsity Basketball Coach Charlie Ryan. The proceeds will benefit the Professional Center in Andover.

The primary reason for Ryan's energetic involvement is basic, his youngest son, Kevin, 5, is a victim of Cerebral Palsy.

The five mile race will begin at 1 p.m. in front of the K of C Hall and finish in the same spot.

"Run, Walk and Ride for Those who Can't" is the race's motto.

"There has been a cutback in state funds for the handicapped," explained Ryan, who raised more than $19,000 in last year's inaugural race. "The money from this race will be used for physical therapists, supplies and equipment at the center."

New Balance and Pepsi are the major sponsors, while a special raffle for all runners will include an all-expense-paid trip to Montreal from Peter Flynn Travel of Chelmsford, a VCR and color tv from J.V. Corporation and several original oil paintings valued at $400 apiece.

A number of clowns will be on hand to paint the faces of young children and the race will receive coverage from all three Boston television stations and KISS 1088 Radio.

Joining Ryan on the race committee are Mark Delisle of Dracut and John Rogers of Chelmsford, donations committee; Fran Cooper of Andover, refreshments; Mrs. Kathy Ash of Methuen, entertainment; Ervino Valle of Georgetown, treasurer; Mrs. Beverly Nutton of North Andover, parent coordinator; Dr. Francis D'Ambrosia of Westford, raffle chairman; ironman triathlete Gerry Grasso of Andover, race starter; and Lowell High girls' varsity cross country and track coach Jim McGuirk, race supervisor. T-shirts will be issued free if the entry fee and sponsorship money pledged total at least $10.

Anyone wishing more information may contact Ryan, Checks should be made payable to Professional Center for Handicapped Children, 25 Central St., Andover, Mass.

Andover Swimmers Split

With the first two meets of the season behind them, the Andover High School women's varsity swim team is batting .500.

Last Friday the Golden Warrior Wave swept over Methuen 115-57. A freshmen foursome set the tone for the day as Laura Ghirardini, Lisa Fox, Pam Boucher and Kate Robb won the medley relay. Debbie Rice, Karen Pederson and Carilyn Cronin placed second.

Susan Estabrooks won the 200 yard freestyle with Fox second and Lauren Picard fifth.

Frosh Amy Van Aken swam to a strong first in the 300 yard I.M. with Rice second and Brenda Brewer fifth.

Ghirardini captured the 50 yard freestyle with Dawn Fater in fifth.

Susan Gerstberger put six solid dives together for a strong-second place finish in the diving competition. Teammates Patty Del Trecco and Tabitha Maracle were fourth and fifth, respectively.

Cronin led the only Andover sweep of the meet when she won the 100 yard butterfly with Boucher second and senior co-captain Mary Robb third.

Anne Koerckel led from the start for a commanding win in the 100 yard freestyle. Roberta Randall was third.

Michele Fox swam her first 500 yard free for Andover and won. Senior co-captain Stephanie Mitchell was second and freshman Eszter Vajda fifth.

Ghirardini completed her triple by taking the 100 yard backstroke. Burkholder was third.

Kate Robb out-touched Mitchell to win the 100 yard breaststroke. Pedersen was fourth.

Andover completed their sweep of the swimming events by going 1-2 in the 400 yard freestyle relay. Mary Robb, Johanna Hohn, Michele Fox and Van Aken were victorious with Randall, Brewer, Estabrooks and Koerckel in second.

Following a tradition established two years ago, the Andover team presented the Jane Cronin Memorial Award to the Methuen high-point competitor, diving winner Wendy Gould who established a new Methuen diving record at the meet. The award is presented in memory of former Methuen coach Jane Cronin.

In the initial meet of the season, Andover went up against a tough team in 1984 MVC champion Haverhill.

Debbie Rice, Kate Robb, Pam Boucher and Estabrooks were second in the 200 yard medley. Amy Van Aken swam a fantastic 200 free but placed second in a photo-finish. Estabrooks was fourth.

Anne Koerckel won the 200 I.M. Carilyn Cronin was fourth. Michele Fox won the 50 free with Laura Ghirardini fourth and Boucher fifth.

Susan Gerstberger was fourth in diving with Tabitha Maracle fifth as were Stephanie Mitchell and Rice in the 100 butterfly.

Van Aken took first in the 100 free with Estabrooks fourth and Ghirardini fifth. Cronin was fourth and Mitchell fifth in the 500 free.

Michele Fox won her second event in the 100 back with Rice third. Koerckel captured the 100 yard breaststroke. Lisa Fox was fifth.

Michele Fox, Cronin, Van Aken and Koerckel combined for a second-place finish in the 400 free relay.

On Team

Zack Apgar is a sophomore forward with the University of New Hampshire soccer team this fall. The five foot, ten inch, 165 pounder from Andover, played sparingly last year for the Wildcats but will be counted on to pick up and help with the scoring this season at the Durham, N.H., school.

Hoop Tryouts At St. Robert's

Tryouts for the St. Robert's boys traveling basketball teams will be held October 21, 22 and 23 at West Junior High School.

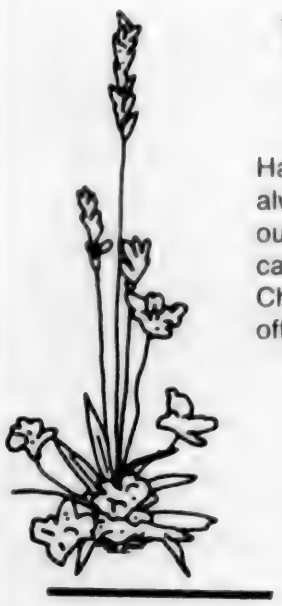

One team will be comprised of fifth and sixth grade boys, one team of seventh grade boys and one of eighth grade boys. Each team will have 10 players. This travelling team program does not take the place of the successful church league that all boys are encouraged to play in.

Fifth and sixth graders should report at 7 p.m.; seventh and eighth graders at 8:30 p.m.

Raiders Stay Undefeated

The Raiders remained undefeated while handing the Redskins their first loss 14-6. The Redskins broke on top in the second quarter when Jason Blandini intercepted his second pass of the game and returned it 50 yards for a touchdown and a 6-0 Redskin lead. The Raiders scored twice in the third quarter. Halfback Rejji Hayes accounted for both touchdowns and open extra point. The scored on an eight-yard sweep and a four-yard burst off tackle. His extra point was also scored on a sweep. Chris Lembo scored the Raiders' other extra point on a dive play. Other Raiders having good offensive games were halfbacks Matt Perry and Tyler Vadeboncoeur, quarterback Joe Iarrobino and tackle Jon Wilen. Leading the way on defense were inside linebacker Paul Lembo, with several unassisted tackles, and tackle David Blank with three sacks. Defensive ends Todd Roycroft and Dennis Grogan, along with noseguard Brian Bradley, linebacker Steve Flaig and end Kevin Murphy also performed well.

Redskins' linemen Eric Greenstein, Dan Burns and Ben Howard, halfbacks Adam Ruma and Herb Foster and quarterbacks Sean Ryan and E.J. Hayes sparkled on offense while linebackers Ryan Kelly, Scott Buchanan and Richard DeAngelis, end Mark Dodge, lineman John Maloney and safety Eric Coraccio anchored the defense.

The Colts and the Dolphins played to a hard-fought, hard-hitting, scoreless tie which left both teams with identical 0-2-1 records. The Central Colts' offense was led by quarterback Bily Batchelder, halfbacks Colin Arsenault, Sean Reilly, Brian Noveliine and linemen Chad Galster, Stefan Foder, Dan Waitkevitch and Craig Tetreault. Defensive standouts were ends Matt Levine and Tim Sullivan, linebackers Donald Johnson and Bobby Dalton, nose tackle Toby Guzowski and safety Justin Lattanzio.

INFORMATION CONCERNING CABLE TELEVISION FOR EVERYONE.

By Jim Novo, October 10, 1985

FREE LUNCH, PART ONE

You may not have realized it, but you have been paying for television since the beginning. Have you ever stopped to think why daytime serials are called "soap operas"? In the beginning, much of television programming was supported by large consumer product firms such as Proctor & Gamble. Television was a brand new way to reach customers, but there was not sufficient programming to support advertising efforts. Solution: create programming, and be guaranteed control of the advertising - because you own the show. Better still, target that programming towards the customer who had purchasing power in the late 50's and early 60's. By designing the programs to attract the American women of that era, these consumer giants were assuring themselves a proper audience for their message. People in turn bought the products, and it was done: the public was paying for television. It was a gamble, but service today as a tribute to progressive thinking by these companies.

Of course, over the years, the structure changed. Production companies designed programs around particular target markets, and sold the rights to advertisers wholesale. As these "middlemen" drove up the price of the product, it became apparent that no longer would one company be able to afford buying a whole show (or string of shows). These production companies, who were in turn buying television stations to broadcast their product, were soon becoming the "networks" of today. In order to make their product more affordable, they began dividing the advertising rights to these programs. You guessed it-shorter, more frequent advertising spots, and the :60 commercial was born.

Women & Joint Custody -

After divorce or separation, joint legal custody means that you and your husband must consult and agree on all major decisions governing your children's lives such as medical care, education and religious training. In recent years joint legal custody has become more fashionable for separated and divorced couples because it appears to offer a way to maintain both parents in close relation to their children. However, joint legal custody requires you to function cooperatively with your husband and your ex-husband sometimes in areas that are very difficult. Before you and your husband agree to joint legal custody, contact Judith L. Nathanson, Esq. a licensed psychotherapist and attorney at law, for a free consultation.

Selected For ECAC Honor Roll

Senior Bowdoin defensive tackle Mike McCullom, 338 Berry St., North Andover, has been named to the ECAC Division III North Honor Roll for his standout defensive performance in Bowdoin's 24-15 September 28 loss to Amherst.

Jail-A-Thon To Be Benefit

From left, Sandy Shaker, Andover; Larry Ardito, North Andover and Kathy Pittochelli, Methuen, prepare for Jail-A-Thon, a Cancer Society benefit scheduled for next weekend.

Sandy Shaker of Andover, Larry Ardito of North and Kathy Pittochelli of Methuen are planning the Jail-a-thon which will be held at the Methuen Mall on October 16, 17 and 18 by the Greater Lawrence Unit of the American Cancer Society. Prisoner outfits have been made for the event by students at the Greater Lawrence Regional Technical Vocational High School.

The Jail-a-thon will involve politicians and bank presidents, school teachers, reporters and others from Andover, North Andover, Lawrence, Methuen and North Reading. Proceeds will support the American Cancer Society's programs of reseach, education and service to cancer patients at local and national levels.

Off-duty volunteer police officers will 'arrest' individuals on the request of friends or colleagues. Arrestees will be brought before a 'judge' where they will be sentenced to raise a certain amount of bail money while locked in the the jail which has been set up at the mall. The bail will be donations pledged by family, friends and colleagues of the 'prisoners.'

Police officers willing to offer as little as four hours of their time are urgently needed. Those who would like to volunteer their services, arrange an 'arrest,' or learn more about the event are invited to call the American Cancer Society.

Security

As part of National Crime Prevention month in the Merrimack Valley, the Methuen Police Department and the Methuen Mall Merchants Association are sponsoring "Auto Security and Theft Prevention Days" at Methuen Mall from Tuesday, Oct. 15, through Saturday, Oct.19.

SPACE SAVERS

Most people remodel their kitchens in a quest for space. Since this is true, let us consider various ways of saving counter space. there are at least three good ways to get clutter off a counter. First, fold-up shelves that attach underneath wall cabinets are available. They keep cookbooks, spices and knives off the counter. Small appliances that attach to wall cabinets by a bracket screwed to the underside of the cabinet can be purchased. Under-cabinet models include toaster ovens, coffee makers, knife sharpeners and mixers. Second, there are shelves that swing up from a cabinet beneath the counter work surface. Third is an appliance garage. This is actually a specialized cabinet that conceis appliances behind an attractive tambour door.

In addition to saving space, you want your remodeled kitchen to be efficient. If you love to cook you want your work areas to be within a few steps of each other. having professionals work with you will help you achieve the perfect set up in your kitchen. At WINDSOR KITCHENS we are experienced in creating the ideal kitchen for each individual client. We give you free estimates for our work and provide installations. Come in to 181 Boston Rd., Ward Hill, Mon.Thurs. 9-5:30, Fri. til 8, Sat. til 2. Call us at 372-3444.

An informal fashion show is planned for Wednesday, Oct. 16, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

Boutique Moves To Main Street

Anticipation Maternity Boutique recently moved to a downtown location, 38 Main St., Andover, directly over Andover Optical.

Pumpkin Giveaway Underway

Once again Foster & Foster Realtors is beginning its annual Halloween Pumpkin giveaway. The practice began six years ago with Foster & Foster agents delivering pumpkins throughout various neighborhoods as a means of introduction and a way of thanking the community members.

As Foster & Foster has grown, so has the pumpkin giveaway. In order to supply the 18 Foster & Foster branch offices with pumpkins, Arena Farm, Concord, now plants more than 3,800 pumpkins in Foster & Foster's own pumpkin patch.

Each pumpkin is accompanied by a card with pumpkin recipes. The Halloween pumpkins are being delivered this week to each branch office.

The first movie to use scent was "Behind the Great Wall," a travelogue of modern China shown in December 1959. The scent was forced through ceiling vents in the theater.

The town now owns the Theater property on Essex Street. The acquisition was approved by Monday night's Town Meeting at a cost of $161,000. The acquisition was approved by a vote of 525-9. The Theater property which was presented to the town in 1968 for $85,000, was rejected in 1968 due to the failure to obtain a two-thirds vote. The Theater property was presented by Chairman of the Memorial Hall Library trustees Frederick S. Allis.

Rezoning for Andover Companies to provide a parking lot for employees at their North Main Street location was approved at Town Meeting.

A radar speed gun for the Andover Police Department was approved and $168,000 for water system improvements was approved during Monday night's Town Meeting.

Probe

Paul A. Sousa, 48, Lawrence Shelter, Lawrence, was arrested and on Friday, Oct. 4, Richard Mical, 34, 4 Sullivan Ave., Lawrence, was arrested on a warrant for larceny under false pretenses. Sousa was also charged on a warrant for two housebreaks in Methuen that occurred in July. Both were arrested in connection with the house and business robberies, according to Det. Winters.

Area police departments have also been investigating similar incidents of the same "scam." according to Det. Winters.

Andover detectives believe the group to be responsiable for a large amount of the crime within the last five or six weeks in Andover and surrounding areas, according to Det. Winters.

"We expect more arrests involving breaking and entering and drugs," Det. Grant said."

"Out of this whole thing, one housebreak has been solved and possibly, three more." Det. Winters said. "A warrant is out for another suspect, and more warrants will be issued. With these arrests and the pressure on, activity should slow down."

North Andover police have issued a warrant this week, for one of the same suspects who is allegedly involved in four incidents of breaking and entering in North Andover.

"Area businesses should call back and verify with the businesses that have called orders in over the phone." Det. Winters said.

Substitute Teachers Needed

For Those Of Us Who Are Older

By Janet D. Lake

This very afternoon the free flu clinic will be held at Doherty Junior High School from 3:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. The shots are free and no prior registration is required. Pneumonia vaccine will also be given, but you had to have registered before this to be eligible. For those who have already registered, this is a reminder that today is the day.

Can you get down to the center? Do you have an hour a week you'd like to make into a meaningful contribution to someone? The Council on Aging Day Care Program urgently needs willing loving hands to assist with simple crafts programs. You do not need to have experience in any field—jut the desire to be helpful. Volunteers are very much needed. Call the program at 470-3800, ext. 295, if you would like more information. Please do consider this. The need is there. You could be the answer.

Do remember the HMO Forum on next Tuesday, Oct. 15, from 12:45 p.m. to 2:30 p.m at the center. It is in your best interests to fully understand the possibilities of this new development in health care. The program is free.

The senior center will be closed Monday, Oct. 14, in celebration of Columbus Day.

The Council on Aging is sponsoring a gala Halloween Party on Thursday, Oct. 31, with a roast beef dinner, music, dancing, prizes and surprises. The program starts at 11:45 a.m. and tickets are required, since the space is limited. You may get your tickets now at the center for $1 each. But, they are moving fast, and if you want to be part of this fun, do get down here and get your tickets now. You may even wear a costume to the party, if you'd like to.

Have you registered for Silver Pages yet? It must be done at the center in person and, therefore, cannot be done over the phone. This nation-wide discount program will be coming to our area shortly, and in order to benefit from it, you must register in advance.

The next mini-clinic will be held October 15 at Andover Commons. This free health clinic is held each week at different locations throughout Andover and includes blood pressure check, urinalysis, hemoglobin testing and weight and health counseling. Referral is also part of the program. If you have not been feeling quite like yourself, why not make an appointment and come in to talk to the caring, competent nurses who staff the program. They will listen. They will counsel. And it is free. You must, however, make an appointment, which you can do by telephoning the health department at 470-3800.

Lecture

The Salem State College Lecture Series presents Jeane J. Kirkpatrick, former U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations, on Friday, Nov. 1, at 8 p.m. in the O'Keefe Sports Complex on Canal Street, Salem. Reserved tickets are available. For ticket forms and information, call the school.

Town Hall

and, of course, town meetings were all held at Town Hall.

Yet "we don't know a lot about it," the manager says. "We have one photograph of the stage (decorated with patriotic buntings to welcome home veterans of the Great War), but we have no photographs of the insides of the floor, the back or the sides."

Two work crews have recently torn down the partitions and false ceilings that were erected some 45 years ago, revealing the original architecture and a few minor mysteries, too. For example, there is a stairway that seemingly leads nowhere, Mahony says ("Where did it go?") and, although there are no fireplaces, some chimneys ("Were they used for stoves?")

"We are seeking information from townspeople," the manager says. "We would like to tap the knowledge of the community's older residents who might have old photos, anecdotes and stories." A student intern will interview those citizens who do remember the old town house and record their memories on tape, Mahony notes.

The renovation project is now in the beginning stages, with architects estimating the cost of basic improvements (new windows, for instance). But the town fathers will wait until they've learned all they can about old Town Hall before proceeding with the restoration, the manager emphasizes, because they're determined to make the town house what it once was—however long that may take.

"We're in no hurry," Town Manager Mahony explains. "We want it to be as authentic as possible."

North Andover Auto Body Cleans Up for Fall

Summer's sand still stuck in your Saab's seat? Litter from little Larry's lollipops lying on your Lincoln's lining? Packs from Big Mac's crumpled in back?

It's Fall—time to make the business car look business-like and clean again. And nobody cleans up on your car, inside and out, like the Car Maid. Car Maid service from North Andover Auto Body, that is.

Car Maid service includes a polish job you can see your face in. Simonizing. Interior cleaning, so the only thing left in your car from summer's hectic schedule is the memory. It's a great way to clean up for Fall—or to get that car ready to sell or trade-in for something more appropriate to the rigors of the coming season.

Of course, North Andover Auto Body, located at 374 Osgood Street (next to the entrance to the high school), is more than a cleaning stop. For more than 26 years, owner David White has presided over a crew of expert auto body specialists who really know their way around those little rough spots in life—from dents picked up in the parking lot at Hampton Beach to a crumpled frame earned at some fogged-in intersection. They repair virtually anything that can happen to a car's body with pride—and their work lives up to their reputation.

North Andover Auto Body knows how to handle insurance hassles, too. From the appraisal to the claim, Dave gets it right for you, while his crew does the same for your car.

This Fall, put your car in the hands of the car body people with the 26-year reputation for quality. Whether you're cleaning up your act, or ironing out the wrinkles in your car's frame, call North Andover Auto Body at 683-600—or stop in M-F 7-5, Sat. 8-12. No matter what the time of year, you'll find that customer satisfaction is never out of season.

WHICH TYPE OF LISTING?

If you plan to sell your home, you must decide on which type of listing to use. Here's a quick run-down:

OPEN LISTING: The seller agrees to pay a commission if the agent finds a buyer who will meet the terms. The seller can also sell his own house or can have more than one agent sell it. Since the agent can lose the listing at the whim of the seller, don't expect as much effort on the part of the agent with this form of listing.

EXCLUSIVE LISTING: This gives only one agent the opportunity to sell the property. This arrangement encourages the agent to work diligently because there is a full commission involved and a deadline to meet.

MULTIPLE LISTING: In this case, you contract with one agent who agrees to distribute the listing to other agents. Even though many agents may work to sell your house, you pay only one commission (the listing broker shares the commission if another sells the property). The advantage of the multiple listing is wider exposure and, perhaps a quicker selling time.

REAL ESTATE GUIDELINES

Schruender Real Estate

FINDING A BUYER IS THE EASY PART!

Selling a home can be one of the most complex commercial transactions that most of us encounter. Once you find someone who wants your house and has the money to buy it, it's still a long way to the settlement table. First, you must negogiate a purchase contract that covers the price and and all the terms of agreement. How much of an earnest money deposit will the buyer put down? How will the loan fees (usually about three percent of the mortgage amount) be split up? When and where will the settlement occur? Under what conditions can either the buyer or seller back out of the contract? Many sales agreements are contingent upon the house passing a major structural inspection. Then the buyer must obtain financing, and the lender's appraiser will have to agree that the sale price is not too high. Once the house passes inspection, and the lawyers agree that you have good title to the property to pass on to the buyer, you can arrange a time and place to sign all the necessary papers to finalize the sale. The agents at Realty USA, Schruender Real Estate have the training and professional experience to guide your sale through the maze of bankers, lawyers, inspectors, appraisers, and paperwork. Call us at 685-5000 or stop by our offices at 73 Chickering Rd., North Andover, MA if we can serve any of your real estate needs.

Board Addresses Concern Of Non-College Bound Student

By Lisa Waterman

Eighty-three percent of Andover High School's class of 1985, will attend college. A number of them will not finish the first semester and the non-college bound student may not be equipped to find a job in the business world, even with the high school diploma in hand.

The School Committee Tuesday night continued the discussion of a growing concern that the preparation to join the work force for the small majority of non-college bound students at Andover High is inadequate.

"Something is out of wack, and it is not something we can fix with a budget or more teachers," School Superintendent Kenneth Seifert said. "All the public should be served.

In 1980, 19 percent of Andover High students left the school corridors for the work force. Ten percent, almost a 50 percent decline from three years ago, of this year's class, plan to work directly after high school, according to a report by Mary Athey Jennings, Andover High School Principal.

Andover High School is, by defination, a comprehensive high school. Comprehensive high schools are geared to ready students in the skills needed for the work force or for going on to college.

"Parents are forcing college on their kids," Susan Poore, school committee member, said. "The dropout number shows that you can only push them so far."

Non-college bound electives are diminishing, according to Seifert.

Business courses average only ten to fifteen students, according to the high school principal.

"Fourteen-year-olds are asked to make the biggest decision of their lives," Chairman Donald W. Robb said.

The split between the students who will attend Greater Lawrence Technical School or the public school is made in the seventh or eighth grade.

"Only 50 of 1,300 high school population attend the vocational school," Seifert said.

Methods to remedy the inequity between the college bound and non-college bound students included: aptitude testing earlier in the student's high school career, a curriculum option that would better serve the non-college bound student and advice geared to students who want to move directly into the work pool from the counseling department.

"Having a high school diploma in the business world may just not be enough any more, maybe we are not focusing on the right things," Poore said. "Two-year schools and technical schools are abounding in the educational mushroom of a decaying system."
